

LIBERAL PARTY IN CUBA OFFERS PEACE PROPOSAL

ILLINOIS TAKES OVER BIG FAIR ON LAKE TODAY

Former Governors Of State Honored At Big Reception

Chicago, Aug. 11—(AP)—With a crash of artillery, the arrival of Governor Horner and five former Chief Executives of the state, military fanfare and speeches and Illinois took over a Century of Progress Exposition today.

Among the dignitaries who rode through massed thousands to the accompaniment of band music and enthusiastic cheering were those to whom, at some time during the past 45 years had been given Illinois' gubernatorial reign.

They were "Private Joe" Fifer, 93, Governor 45 years ago; Edward P. Dunne, 80; Charles S. Deneen, Len Small and Louis L. Emmerson.

They went through the biggest hand-shaking ordeal since they had retired from political life.

Made On Speeches

The former Governors made no speeches, but theirs was a busy afternoon.

First they rode through the Avenue of Flags between troops of the 6th Infantry and Chicago's Black Horse troop, then mounted the speaker's platform in the Court of States.

All stood and bowed to the plaudits of the crowd as Governor Horner introduced them, beginning with Fifer, who, as Governor in 1888, appointed the Illinois State Commission to the Columbian Exposition of 1893.

Following the oratory, they were escorted to the Illinois host building for an informal reception. It was a complete erasure of party lines.

But Fifer stood and shook hands with a seemingly endless procession of well-wishers. Fifer, by virtue of seniority, received them from an easy chair, ear-phones clamped to his head and his daughter, Florence Fifer Bohrer, at his side.

Troops Were Massed

Scenes reminiscent of war time were repeated this morning as troop train after troop train pulled into Chicago, bringing units of the 33rd division of the Illinois National Guard to participate in the biggest massing of troops in Chicago since the World War.

A review of this division of nearly 9,500 men, under command of Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keel, was the major event on the crowded Illinois Day program, which began at 10 A. M. With a formal military reception to Gov. Horner and continues until the fireworks display at 10 P. M.

After arrival of the Governor, activities switched to the Hall of States. There the multitudes were addressed by Governor Horner, Lieut. Gov. Thomas Donovan, Speaker Henry E. Rainey of the U. S. House of Representatives, U. S. Senator William H. Dieterich, Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair.

Children And Women

This morning's program also included a children's parade, half a mile long, and a parade of farmers to the Agricultural Building where they were met informally by W. H. McLaughlin, Director of the State Department of Agriculture.

In the afternoon the residents of southern Illinois had their convention with the Illinois Egyptian Club. The big review, which will pass before Governor Horner and the five former governors of Illinois, had been set for 2:30 P. M.

After this the women will have the spotlight when Achaiah Bond Drive is dedicated in honor of the wife of the first Governor of Illinois. It is related that Mrs. Bond rode with her husband on horseback to Washington to get the charter that made Illinois a state.

Dixon Truckman's Load Is Hijacked

Word was received here this morning of the hijacking of a truckload of mixed live stock during the night in the suburbs of Chicago from Wm. Gerdes, local truckman. The driver was ordered to the curb in a sedan, where he was ordered from the cab and another driver substituted. According to the report Gerdes was given a ride of some distance when he was released and reported his loss.

Holly Adams of Polo was reported to have shipped 25 hogs, nine fat sheep and two calves which formed the major part of the consignment to the Chicago stock yards. The empty truck was reported to have been recovered this morning.

Bus Kills Two Men Near Gilman Today

Gilman, Ill., Aug. 11—(AP)—Two Detroit men were killed early today when the automobile transport truck in which they were riding collided with a Chicago-St. Louis motor bus.

The men killed were Paul Demery, about 50, and George Van Damme, about 25. They were returning to Detroit after hauling a load of automobiles to Kansas City.

Passengers in the bus were shaken up. The bus was undamaged and continued on its way.

Assessed Valuation Of Lands In Lee Co. Lowered Each Year For Past Five

Boards Of Review Of Lee Have Worked For Taxpayers

The Lee county Board of review, composed of Walter Ortigies of South Dixon, chairman, J. A. Roessler, Ashton, secretary, and Mark D. Smith of Dixon, today announced a blanket reduction of ten per cent in valuation real estate both on farms and town lots and their improvements. The decision was reached after a careful study of the Township assessors' books and consultation with County Treasurer and Supervisor of Assessments, Sterling D. Schrock. The board considered the matter from the standpoint of the taxpayer's ability to pay and the ability of the county and other governmental units to function with this reduction. Justice and necessity, in their opinion, required such a cut.

No pressure other than a sense of duty has had effect in bringing this reduction, the board members announced today.

Three-Year Reduction

In 1931 there was a reduction of 20 per cent on farm lands only, in 1932 there was a reduction of 15 per cent on both farm lands and town property and improvements, with the reduction this year the board members feel that in the past three years something really has been done to relieve the tax payers of Lee county.

A table showing the reductions in assessed valuations in the county in the past five years has been compiled. Figures for 1933 are not final, as no figures have been received for telephone and telegraph companies and railroads, these being assessed by the State Tax Commission. Also the figures on real estate and personal property are approximate and not complete. The tabulation is as follows:

1929—Farm lands, $28,739,870; town lots, $10,599,960; personal property, $7,071,375; total, $46,402,205.00; telephone and telegraph, $238,185; railroads, $58,234,735; grand total, $52,591,773.00.

1930—Farm lands, $28,395,500; town lots, $10,791,865; personal property, $6,672,930; total, $45,860,295; telephone and telegraph, $280,245; railroads, $5,030,707; grand total, $52,076,142.00.

1931—Farm land, $23,731,595; town lots, $10,605,300; personal property, $6,184,070; total, $40,520,965.00; telephone and telegraph, $279,840; railroads, $4,749,608; grand total, $46,292,218.00.

1932—Farm lands, $20,163,865; town lots, $9,007,322; personal property, $5,838,744; total, $35,009,931; telephone and telegraph, $527,235; railroads, $4,277,107; grand total, $39,817,173.00.

1933—Farm lands, $18,184,030; town lots, $8,118,605; personal, $5,000,000; total, $31,272,635; telephone and telegraph, $327,235; railroads, $4,277,107; grand total, $36,076,770.00.

Terse Items Of News Gathered In Dixon During Day

WITH STERLING BAND

Ralph and Paul Grimes of the Dixon Civic band will be heard in a duet number with the Sterling Concert band Sunday afternoon in a program to be given at Lawrence park. The Dixon musicians will play a xylophone number during the program.

VERY ILL AT UTICA

The many friends of Mrs. Hubert Bahen will be grieved to learn of her critical illness at her home near Utica. Mrs. Bahen lived in this vicinity all of her life until two years ago when she moved with her family to Utica. Her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Leake of Amboy spent Sunday with her and report she is failing each day.

STOVE EXPLODED

The fire department this morning at 9:30 responded to an alarm at the home of Mrs. Charles Freiburg, 606 Depot avenue, where a gasoline stove exploded. Neighbors had succeeded in removing the stove from the house before any great damage was done and the fire had been extinguished before the department's arrival, with slight damage to the property.

LIKE SCENERY HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Dan C. Norman and daughter, Mrs. Macoy of Chicago, called on Dixon friends Thursday. They were returning from the scenic drive to Galena and were charmed as well with the beautiful Rock River scenery. Mr. Norman is vice president of the Continental Illinois Bank, and has a wide acquaintance throughout this section.

BAND TO CHICAGO

The Dixon Civic band of 45 members left this morning in a special coach over the Northwestern at 6:40 for Chicago where this evening they will render a concert in the Court of Science hall. Director Russell Mason put the band through a final rehearsal last evening at Rosbrook's hall. Members of families of several of the musicians made the trip to Chicago and several will remain over the week end, while the others will return home late tonight.

SOCK ON NOSE; MAN GOT MAD; HE'S A JUDGE

Kentuckian Had Not Intended To Run Until He Got Socked

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 11—(AP)—A sock on the nose indirectly led to the defeat of Circuit Judge William R. Prewitt, Mt. Sterling, who conducted several of the murder trials arising from Harlan County's mine labor disorders of 1931. It happened this way, according to D. B. Caudill, the successful candidate.

Caudill, who was defeated by Judge Prewitt six years ago, had told him he did not intend to run this year. While at Frenchburg on the last day for filing candidates, he had a dispute with a Prewitt adherent who he said struck him in the nose and knocked him down.

Infuriated, Caudill said he returned to his home at Morehead, telephoned Judge Prewitt and told him he had decided to file. He hastily prepared his papers, and sent a special messenger dashing to Frankfort.

Caudill filed for both the Republican and Democratic nominations. Prewitt had filed in the Democratic race only. The final count in the district, which includes Montgomery, Bath, Menifee and Rowan counties, today revealed Caudill had won the Democratic nomination by 155 votes giving him the judgeship.

Circuit Judge D. C. Jones, Harlan, who also conducted part of the mine murder trials, was defeated too. He lost to James M. Gilbert, a former assistant attorney general in both the Republican and Democratic primaries in the Bell-Harlan district. The tabulation was not yet complete, but the defeat of Jones was certain.

Tennessee's Vote For Repeal Cast

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 11—(AP)—Tennessee's vote in favor of erasing prohibition from the Federal constitution was formally cast today at a convention of delegates elected July 20 when the state gave a majority of approximately 6,800 for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Road Contractor Kidnaped, Robbed

Morris, Ill., Aug. 11—(AP)—L. Booth, wealthy road contractor of Gardner, Ill., was kidnaped in front of his home last night and released several miles distant after being robbed of $25. The three young robbers did not injure him. Booth said they stopped him to ask directions to Wilmington, then pulled him into their car.

Mrs. E. H. Janssen Of Nelson Is Dead

Mrs. E. H. Janssen passed away at her home in Nelson at 11:50 o'clock last evening after an illness which had kept her bedfast for the past five months. Pending receipt of word from relatives at a distance funeral arrangements were being held in abeyance at noon today, and they will be announced later.

Mrs. Janssen, who was born in Germany Dec. 10, 1880 and who came to the vicinity of Nelson in her childhood, is survived by her husband and three children, Mrs. Pearl Schoaf of Nelson, Robert Warner of Rock Falls and Romaine, at home.

Anthrax Terrors Go With Discovery Of New Immunizer

Cincinnati, Aug. 11—(AP)—The scourge which has swept the world since first reported in the Bible as the "murder" of exodus, may lose its last terrors for man in a new type of immunity discovered at the University of Cincinnati.

The first anthrax immunizer was made by Pasteur in 1880 from Anthrax bacteria. The new Cincinnati antidote is taken from much less dangerous sources, which have no apparent connection with anthrax. It was developed by Dr. George E. Rockwell, of the Department of Bacteriology and Hygiene, College of Medicine.

The new immunizer is the red corpuscles of sheep, boiled in water. Dr. Rockwell injected some of these boiled corpuscles into the bodies of rabbits, intraperitoneally. After two weeks he inoculated these rabbits with virulent anthrax bacilli. The animals were not even made ill.

But exactly similar anthrax germs proved 100 per cent lethal to rabbits which had not been immunized with the sheep corpuscles.

FOUR YOUTHS GET LIFE TERMS AND FIFTH 40 YEARS

Duquoin Miners Killed Girl When They Shot Into Miner's Home

Jonesboro, Ill., Aug. 11—(AP)—Found guilty of the murder of Lawrence Miller, 14-year-old school girl, five youthful miners of Duquoin were under long terms today, four of them facing life imprisonment and the other a 40-year sentence.

A Circuit court jury, deliberating just four hours, returned its verdict shortly before 8 o'clock last night. Robert Shingleton, Sam Ferro, Otis Battaglia and Barney Bosetto received the life terms, and Emery Albers the shorter sentence. They showed no emotion when sentence was passed after the verdict was given. R. W. Karaker, a member of the defense counsel, made a motion for a new trial.

Fired Into Home

The Miller girl, a daughter of a United Mine Workers of Duquoin, was wounded fatally the night of April 6, when she was shot as she was studying in her home by a rifle fired from a speeding automobile.

All of the defendants, with the exception of Albers, were alleged by the state to have been riding in the car when the shooting occurred. Albers loaned the car, the prosecution charged, to the others and knew of their plan to shoot into the Miller home.

The trial lasted three and a half weeks, selection of jury occupying the first six days.

In closing statements to the jury, attorneys for the state had asked that the death penalty be inflicted.

The murder was attributed, by attorneys for both sides in their closing statements, to the bitterness in southern Illinois between the Progressive Miners, with which defendants were affiliated, and the United Mine Workers.

Business Upswing Is Again Operating Says Bradstreet's Review

New York, Aug. 11—(AP)—The business upswing which continued for 16 weeks has been resumed after a brief pause caused by uncertainties surrounding the new industrial codes and a restricted seasonal recession in some lines, Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., said today in its weekly trade review.

Extension of retail and wholesale distribution has been wider than was commonly reported, the review said, and rested on a real need for merchandise rather than a speculative desire to seek advantage of probable fluctuations in price trends.

Looking ahead, the agency envisaged the straightening of the upward sales curve in the opening fall months as more than counterbalancing any slackening that may appear in the next few weeks.

BULLISH CROP NEWS FAILS TO KEEP PRICE UP

Quotations Fall Precipitously Today On All Boards

Chicago, Aug. 11—(AP)—A government crop report gave official confirmation to reports of huge crop losses today—but grain fell precipitously in the face of the bullish news.

Wheat closed five cents a bushel lower and oats down three cents, the maximum amounts allowable under emergency trading rules, on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Corn was stronger than the other two grains, but also lost about 2 1/2 cents on the average.

September wheat closed at 95 1/2; December, 98 1/2, and May, 1.02 1/2. Each price was five cents lower than the average closing price of the three deliveries yesterday.

Other markets also failed to react upward on the official reports that the United States wheat crop would be 150,000,000 bushels less than the average for past 10 years.

Among the factors credited with influencing the market, downward were reports of good crops in Europe and the Argentine, better crop news than had been expected from Canada, and widespread reports that the grain exchange code submitted to Washington was viewed unfavorably by administration officials.

There was discussion also of talk are carrying over almost 600,000,000 that the United States and Canada bushels of wheat, sufficient to offset to a large extent the crop reduction of this year.

LaSalle Sheriff Believes He Has Zimmerman Caged

Ottawa, Ill., Aug. 11—(AP)—Sheriff E. J. Welter today believed he had Frank Zimmerman, 26, wanted for the $52,000 robbery of the Union National Bank at Streator, Ill., safely behind bars in Washington, D. C., until such time as he can be extradited.

In addition to the indictment charging robbery with a gun the Sheriff sent four other indictments against the former Chicago taxi driver to Washington, where he is held under $50,000 bond and asked that the bond on each be placed at $50,000.

Sheriff Welter was forced to return from Washington without his prisoner this week when Zimmerman, defeated in a habeas corpus hearing, carried his case to higher courts.

Caudill Wins Judgeship

Caudill filed for both the Republican and Democratic nominations. Prewitt had filed in the Democratic race only. The final count in the district, which includes Montgomery, Bath, Menifee and Rowan counties, today revealed Caudill had won the Democratic nomination by 155 votes giving him the judgeship.

Two Women And Six Men Named; All But Two Are In Custody

Edwardsville, Ill., Aug. 11—(AP)—Six men and two women were under indictment today for their alleged participation in the kidnapping last month of August Luer, 77-year-old Alton banker.

A Madison county grand jury returned the true bills late yesterday, after making a two-day investigation of the abduction.

Six of those named are already in custody, while police are seeking the other two, Walter Holland, alias "Irish" O'Malley, and Mrs. Vivian Chase, who has several aliases.

Perry M. Fitzgerald, Randol Eugene Norvell, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Chessen, Mike Musiala and Chris Gitchow were the ones named who had already been arrested in connection with the abduction. All live in or about East St. Louis.

Gang Leader Confesses

About the same time the grand jury made its report, Norvell, reputed ring-leader of the kidnap gang, admitted his part in the crime. Chief of Police Joseph Gerk of St. Louis announced.

Mrs. Chessen and Gitchow also made confessions, Gerk stated.

Luer, for a time, was held in Gitchow's grocery store at Madison, before being taken to a sub-basement under a shed on Musiala's farm.

Mrs. Chessen suggested Luer as the victim, police stated after several other wealthy persons had been mentioned.

Fitzgerald and Musiala previously had admitted taking part in the kidnaping. Chessen, according to his wife, had knowledge of her participation in the plot, but was not personally involved and chided her for her part. He denied complicity.

Most of those under arrest also face a federal charge of using the mails to extort. They will probably be tried under the state law, however, which provides the death penalty for kidnapping in case of conviction.

INDICT EIGHT FOR KIDNAPING ALTON BANKER

Before Grand Jury

Meanwhile, William Hamm, who paid $100,000 for his freedom, had returned from a vacation to appear before the grand jury this morning when it convenes to consider evidence against the four Touhy gang members including their leader, Roger Touhy, now held in Wisconsin.

Besides Hamm the following will be asked to appear: Sheriff George O'Brien, Elkhorn, Wis., and four of his deputies, Harry and Will Ward George Wisell and Paul Schinke.

Two Indicted For Death Of Ex-Elginite

Stamford, Conn. Men Held For Murder In New York

New York, Aug. 11—(AP)—Lawrence J. Kelly, of Hartford, Conn., and Edward F. Moran, 22, of Stamford, Conn., were indicted today on charges of first degree murder in the death of Dr. E. Warren Sylla, wealthy dentist, formerly of Elgin, Ill.

The indictment was disclosed when the men were arraigned in Homicide Court on charges of suspicion of homicide, on which they had been tentatively held.

Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud dismissed the tentative charges against the two men and turned them over to detectives to face the indictment.

Renaud liberated Joseph Terasovich, 30, and Stanley Kenefic, 22, of Stamford, who also had been held in connection with the dentist's slaying. Detectives at once took them in custody as material witnesses.

Dr. Sylla, who was 60 years old, was found strangled in his fashionable East 90th Street apartment July 24. His pockets and the apartment had been rifled.

Cosmetics Barred By Nazi Women; Smokers Can't Be Members

Berlin, Aug. 11—(AP)—Buying illegal Communist Volkszeug for ten pfennigs (nominally 2 1/2 cents) today cost a Hamburg riveter a three months' jail sentence.

For humming the "Internationale" on the street while returning home from a saloon a 60-year-old Berlin shoemaker was fined and sentenced to four months in jail since his singing "was calculated to incite to violence."

For chopping down an oak dedicated to Chancellor Hitler two Goerlitz workers received one year prison sentences and were deprived of citizenship rights for three years.

Women using cosmetics henceforth will be barred from meetings of the lower Frankfurt Nazi women's organizations. Those who smoke will be ousted from membership.

NEW TRAILS IN KIDNAPINGS ARE BEING UNFOLDED

Federal Agents Claiming Progress In Chas. Urschel Case

St. Paul, Aug. 11—(AP)—New kidnap trails stretched before Department of Justice operatives today in the Urschel abduction as the United States government neared a climax in another kidnapping—that of William Hamm, Jr., millionaire St. Paul brewer.

A special federal grand jury was ordered convened this morning to hear witnesses in the Hamm case involving the Touhy gang of Chicago, as federal agents broadened their hunt for suspects in the abduction of Charles Urschel, millionaire Oklahoma oil man.

They sought, it was understood, a former cigar store and cafe owner of Minneapolis, who, when in business operated books on horse races and baseball games. This unidentified man, it was hoped, would supply the missing link between the three men in custody in St. Paul and the actual kidnapers of Urschel.

Are Making Progress

Werner Hanni, Chief of the Bureau of Investigation for this district, refused to comment on the reported development beyond admitting "we are making progress."

Attorneys for two of the men held conferred with Hanni late yesterday.

Afterward, it was reported one of the trio changed his story as to how he obtained the marked ransom money, which was part of that paid for Urschel's freedom, and the hunt for the Minneapolis cigar store was started. About a dozen more persons were questioned yesterday by federal operatives but none was held.

Previously Hanni said "impossible and unreasonable stories" were related by William Nelson, unemployed Sam Kronik, barber, supply and cosmetic business, head; and Charles Wolk, transfer company head, all of Minneapolis. From them federal operatives said they accounted for about $1,500 of the ransom. About $500 additional had dribbled into St. Paul banks from unknown sources.

DALRYMPLE GETS
WALKING PAPERS
A SECOND TIMERetiring Chief Of Dry
Enforcement Force
Waxes Caustic

Washington, Aug. 11—(AP)—A. V. Dalrymple for the second time today had left a job in which he helped the federal government enforce the prohibition laws.

His last retirement—yesterday, because the Prohibition Bureau was reorganized—was accompanied by a public statement that as Director he had been a victim of "duplicitous, double-dealing and double-crossing."

In 1920, he was Prohibition Administrator for Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin. He then reported a "rum rebellion" in Iron County, Michigan, and led a group of his agents to the scene. But no drastic action followed.

Nine months later his resignation was announced from Washington. Then, last April 1, he was made Chief of the Bureau here. In office less than three weeks, he became involved in a dispute over beer manufacturing permits granted to New Jersey gangsters. In that case, he said then, there was a "misunderstanding."

His statement yesterday remarked that the controverted permits had been granted without his knowledge. Three, he said, were approved before he took office, one the second day after he was sworn in and the fifth the same day that he sent out instructions as to how they should be granted.

He charged also, that he was not responsible for telegrams telling 1,800 employed under the Prohibition Bureau that the reorganization would automatically remove them from the payroll.

Reduced Unit At Work
The reduced prohibition unit of the Division of Investigation today went about enforcement of the Volstead Law pending final decision by the states on repeal of the 18th Amendment.

Consolidation of the Prohibition Bureau and the Bureau of Investigation of the Justice Department placed enforcement under direction of J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Division with John Hurley, former Assistant Director of Prohibition, as his assistant.

Details of the policy to be followed by the new division have not been announced, but Attorney General Cummings recently said the federal prohibition forces would continue enforcing the law.

If the 18th Amendment is repealed, he said the division would devote most of its attention to enforcing laws prohibiting shipment of liquor from wet to dry territory.

While it has been generally understood that about 600 employees of the old Prohibition Bureau had been dropped in the consolidation, Justice Department officials have declined to give the exact number or announce any of the details of the reorganization of the two bureaus until the return of the Attorney General from his vacation next week.

U. S. PLANS NEW DEAL
Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 11—(AP)—Outlines of the State Department's program for a new order in Cuba became known today as President Roosevelt silently waited for an early response to his declaration for an end to political warfare on the island.

It was learned that a program providing for a sugar production quota, a complete reorganization of the external and internal debt of the country on a lower basis, a new deal for land development and a reciprocal tariff is nearing completion.

The State Department and friends of Cuba in the United States have been negotiating the plans for the past four months.

While Roosevelt is maintaining the strictest silence awaiting developments in the Cuban crisis, very obviously the Cuban new deal program is what he wants to establish in behalf of the island as soon as the disorders end.

There was no amplification today at the summer White House on the message given by the President to Ambassador Cintas to relay to President Machado. Some reports express a belief the President has invited Machado to this country.

It would be a way to assure the Cuban head of state in return for withdrawal, but neither the President nor his aides would confirm such a proposal.

THE NATIVE LAND

(From the Spanish of Francisco
De Aldana.)

Clear fount of light, my native land on high,
Bright with a glory that shall never fade!
Mansion of truth! without a veil or shade,
Thy holy quiet meets the spirit's eye.
There dwells the soul in its eternal essence,
Gasp no longer for life's feeble breath;
But, serene in heaven, its glorious presence,
With pitying eye beholds, yet fears not, death.
Beloved country, banished from thy shore,
A stranger in this prison-house of clay,
The exiled spirit weeps and sighs
for thee!
Heavenward the bright perfection
Direct and the sure promise cheers
the way,
That, with love aspires, there shall my dwelling be.
—Henry W. Longfellow.

Inevitable Increase Cost of Education

Since "nearly seven times as many children went to high school in 1928 as in 1900" and since "chairs and books and teachers cost more than in 1900" there has been an inevitable increase in the cost of education in Illinois.

"In the scaling down of expenses we are making today," Mrs. Laura Hughes Lundie, chairman of the Department of Education of the Illinois League of Women Voters, asks
every citizen to drastically the essential services to these children,
when we can work out a real economy in our way of handling the schools?"

School administration in Illinois through 11,963 districts, is just another illustration of the need for reorganizing our local units of government, set forth by President Roosevelt in his book, "Looking Forward." As Governor of the Department of Education of the Illinois League of Women Voters, asks
every citizen to drastically the essential services to these children,
when we can work out a real economy in our way of handling the
schools?"

It is in the power of Governor
Homer, the Superintendent of Education and the Superintendent of Registration and Education to accomplish the objectives set for it by its proponents was that it had become a "police man."

Violations of permanent codes, where they are not cleared up atter conciliatory action by the Administration, will be referred to the Federal Trade Commission and then the Department of Justice if necessary, the Administrator explained,
but said:

"We are going to assume good faith until we see something different."

Federal Compliance
A presidential order and governmental example pushed along today the National Recovery Administration's organized campaign to "buy under the Blue Eagle emblem" of industrial recovery.

Closely following the remark by Johnson that "it would be curious" if the government dealt with firms not coming in under the recovery program Roosevelt last night backed the Administrator's words with a presidential order virtue fulfilling Johnson's prediction.

Roosevelt, at the summer White House, issued an executive order that all government contracts would be cancelled if the contractor did not comply with the recovery code.
Government contracts eventually will include a big part of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund.

Says Public Must Buy
At almost the hour the presidential order was issued, Johnson in an address at Baltimore, said that "the public must buy now, it must buy under the Blue Eagle and it must buy to the full of its responsible and prudent needs." This, said the Administrator, was "nothing less than the point of success or failure" in the entire recovery program.

The campaign, Johnson predicted, would intensify during the next three weeks toward "complete saturation of the country" with the spirit of the recovery program.

With its buying campaign definitely launched, the NRA pressed its efforts to swing more industries under recovery codes designed to raise pay and create more jobs.

Dressing Up Your Kitchen—Here's How

Don't treat your kitchen like an "outsider!" It's the spot where the average housewife spends most of her time, so why not have it as attractive as possible? You can carry out an entire summer color scheme in your kitchen, the same as you do in the other rooms in the house. When you're buying new summer draperies and slip covers for the living room and bedrooms, it's an excellent idea to buy new materials with which to dress up the kitchen. Gay, yellow-and-white fabricoid (you can get it by the yard) makes handsome, cheerful curtains, table covers and shelf coverings. Don't overlook the kitchen chairs. They'll be twice as comfortable and will stay clean longer if you make dainty little cushions for the seats and backs of them.

Entrusting Children With Important Tasks Helps Give Them Confidence

"Georgia, let's do something nice."

"What?" said small Georgia excitedly.

Her mother pretended to think a minute. Then she exclaimed as though the notion had just popped into her head, "Let's bake some bread."

"In my play kitchen? In my own stove?"

"I'm afraid that wouldn't make enough. Let's try the big kitchen and make real bread."

"I'll watch." "My goodness alive! It isn't fun watching things. It's only fun doing them."

The little girl looked doubtful. She had watched Annie baking but Annie usually shoos her out of the kitchen. Now it was Annie's turn and there was nobody to boss her about.

Interest Aroused
Her mother told her what to do. The big bread pan was almost as big as Georgia herself, but it wasn't heavy. Getting the flour out of the bin was a lot of fun and lifting it was still more fun. She was allowed to dissolve the yeast in just so much water. She measured out salt, sugar, a little butter, and her mother let her use milk instead of potato water.

She made a "hole" in the flour

Recital by Children
Was a Great Success

Children in the summer class taught by Miss Margaret Ballou, public school teacher, gave a recital Wednesday evening in the auditorium at the south central school, which was well attended by parents and friends. The program consisted of a recital or pageant of well known characters of childhood. Such characters as Cinderella, Red Riding Hood, etc., dear to the heart of every child, came to life and performed their parts to perfection, according to the program printed in the Telegraph Wednesday evening. Some of the children recited pieces instead of taking the part of some character of fairyland, and each child did exceptionally well.

Paris Couturiers Bestow
New Charm on an Old Favorite

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
(NEA Service Writer.)
Paris, Aug. 8.—The great vogue this season undoubtedly goes to the three-quarters ensemble for both formal and semi-formal wear. There is something irresistible about this type of ensemble and women have always applauded its appearance in the fashion scheme. The three-quarters ensemble can always replace the jacket suit and the long coat, but neither can fill the particular place it occupies.

Originality, variety, youthfulness of appearance and the possibility of clever combinations of coloring are among the salient points to be found in the ensemble of this type.

It suits short women whom the tailored suit sometimes dwarfs even more. Tall women find it as becoming, if not more so, as a long coat which is apt to add unwanted inches.

And another of the delightful properties of the so-called three-quarters is that you can add or subtract inches to suit the individual silhouette.

Profusion of Styles
Every one of the leading couturiers stressed the three-quarter ensemble in their summer collection, expressing it in their individual way. Styles vary from the loose saque type of coat launched by Schiaparelli last season to the fitted coat with the hem banded in fox or some other fluffy fur, as sponsored by Molynex, Jenny, and others.

Necklines are almost as varied as sleeve styles and the dress is usually of a totally different fabric.

One of the smartest of the new three-quarter ensembles for afternoon is shown by Lelong. The dress is made of black crepe de chine with a modernistic floral design in yellowish green. The coat is of matching yellow green angora wool fabric with an originally draped collar tying midway between the neck and waist in a self bow, showing the top of the dress.

Jenny Creation Smart
The sleeves are three-quarters too, and raglan, and the coat sides being an ideal formal summer afternoon dress it can also do duty as an informal dinner dress.

Chantal Sleeves Unique
Chantal shows an attractive model in natural colored thread which is almost tailored and belted with a soft brown leather belt. Over this is placed a loose three-quarter coat of matching lanage, the chief feature of which is the sleeve treatment. These are cut into the inside from the arm-hole to the elbow to show the lace.

There is no collar to the coat. Heim shows a new interesting treatment of the same idea in the form of a sleeveless, tunic-like affair, caught up on each shoulder by a modernistic button. The coat is made of one of the new linen canvas weaves in natural color worn over a beige crepe de chine dress. This coat is belted and a band of black lynx enhances the originality of this ensemble.

Besides all the new "liqueur" colors such as green, yellow and purplish reds, which usually are used for the coat over a printed dress, beige, grege and grey are the favored colors for afternoon ensembles of the three-quarters persuasion, fur-trimmed or not.

Fox and lynx are the two pelts that are used most frequently and the former is seen in every shade of red, beige and grey to match the fabrics.

Three-quarters coats top the loveliest of afternoon things. A smart string woven coat (left), treated in modern manner, is worn over a string colored crepe de chine dress from Heim. Black lynx and black gloves give a handsome contrast. Beige linen, in one of the new weaves, makes an open-sleeved three-quarters coat (right) to go over an elegant formal afternoon dress of string linen lace, with long tight sleeves and a flattering collared neckline, from Chantal.

Army Refuses to
"Light" the Lady

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Lady of Bedloe's Island won't carry the torch for the Army any more.

The trouble is simply this: The Army no longer can support her in the style to which she had become accustomed.

Two years ago she got lit up. That was the Army's doing. The Army spent about $40,000, and the Lady of Bedloe's Island was lit like the marquee of a cinema house—flood-lights and that sort of thing, to make her lovely by night as she is lovely by day.

The Army was extremely proud. Nothing is too good for its women folk.

By DALE HARRISON

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Lady of Bedloe's Island won't carry the torch for the Army any more.

The trouble is simply this: The Army no longer can support her in the style to which she had become accustomed.

Two years ago she got lit up. That was the Army's doing. The Army spent about $40,000, and the Lady of Bedloe's Island was lit like the marquee of a cinema house—flood-lights and that sort of thing, to make her lovely by night as she is lovely by day.

The Army was extremely proud. Nothing is too good for its women folk.

Unfortunately, some gentlemen in Washington became impressed with a need for economy. They looked over the books and came upon that item of $40,000 for prettying the Lady of Bedloe's Island. Forty thousand dollars just to get a lady properly lit. Preposterous!

"Generals" said the gentlemen in Washington, addressing the Army, "we profess to have as much admiration for feminine beauty as the next fellow; and we are not denying that perhaps in our day we, too, were gay blades."

"We cannot agree, however, that in these times any such sum as $40,000 should be spent to light any lady. Besides, she's got a torch; and she isn't going anywhere."

"We have come, therefore, to the conclusion that from now on the Lady of Bedloe's Island—the Statue of Liberty—shall cease to be a concern of the United States Army. Henceforth she will be cared for by the Department of the Interior, which is a very good department, though little given to romance or the practice of spending $40,000 to get ladies lit up."

After all, the Lady of Bedloe's Island is 47 years old and weighs 225 tons and she can't expect to be treated like a chorus girl."

237 EMPLOYERS OF LABOR HERE ON HONOR ROLL

Certificates Will Be Checked Against Agreements

That the Federal NRA administration is preparing to check up on employers who are displaying the blue eagle insignia, to see that all details of the agreement are being carried out, is indicated in orders received by Postmaster John E. Moyer today to forward to the Department of Commerce at Chicago all certificates of compliance which have been turned into the post office, upon presentation of which the signers were given the NRA insignia.

The Commerce Department's order stated that these certificates are to be checked against the agreements which employers certified they had signed and mailed to the Chicago office. Should it be found that any signed agreement, corresponding to the certificate of compliance which has been filed in the Dixon post office, is not in the hands of the Federal administration it is likely the NRA blue eagle and other insignia will be taken up from the employer who has not mailed the signed agreement as required.

Await Instructions
The local NRA administration is still without definite instructions concerning many details of the campaign, and General Chairman Moyer is awaiting explicit data from headquarters before calling his committee together to formulate detailed plans for the Dixon drive.

At noon today 237 Dixon employers had filled certificates of compliance with the local office, the additions to the roll of honor since Thursday noon being:

William Carr, shoe repairer, 105 No. Galena ave.; R. L. Vest, 409 Third St. and 94 Galena Ave.; Walter Knack, wholesaler, tobacco, 301 First St.; Dave Barton service station, R. F. D. 6; Chas. Bros., tailors, 110 1/2 First St.; Ford Hopkins Co., 124 First St.; M. L. Long, groceries, Third St.; and Emil Neff, groceries and market, 83 Galena ave.

Auto Assn. To Meet
The Lee County Automotive Association will hold a meeting this evening at 7:30 at the Nettz & Co. Garage in Dixon. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the NRA code. A man from Peoria and also a government representative will be present to advise the meeting.

"ECONOMIC DEATH" THREAT
Washington, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A flat prediction that a case of re-vo-cation of the "Blue Eagle" emblem of compliance with the National Recovery Administration will arise and that it will mean "economic death" to the offender was made today by Hugh S. Johnson, the N. R. A. administrator.

At his press conference, Johnson promised that violators of modified presidential reemployment agreements would be disciplined if it were found that they were not complying with their pledge to raise wages and increase employment by shortening work hours.

He added, however, that he intended to let the situation rest for a brief period in the hands of local committees.

"But the time is coming," Johnson said, "when somebody is going to take one of these Blue Eagles off of someone's window in a clear cut case."

Administrator Stern
"And that is going to be a sentence of economic death," the Administrator added sternly, leveling his finger at the newspapermen gathered before him.

Questioned concerning the status of intrastate utilities and similar businesses, Johnson said that while they might not be within the regulatory power of the National Recovery Act, the Blue Eagle would reach them.

He pointed out that the possibility of strictly intrastate operations being beyond federal control is one of the reasons "for this Blue Eagle business."

Working Out Well
"This Blue Eagle doesn't know anything about intrastate and interstate commerce," the Administrator said, "and I think it's working out pretty well."

The administrator repeated that it was not intended to set up a police organization within the Recovery Administration. He said one of the reasons the Federal Trade Commission had failed to accomplish the objectives set for it by its proponents was that it had become a "police man."

Violations of permanent codes, where they are not cleared up after conciliatory action by the Administration, will be referred to the Federal Trade Commission and then the Department of Justice if necessary, the Administrator explained, but said:

"We are going to assume good faith until we see something different."

Federal Compliance
A presidential order and governmental example pushed along today the National Recovery Administration's organized campaign to "buy under the Blue Eagle emblem" of industrial recovery.

Closely following the remark by Johnson that "it would be curious" if the government dealt with firms not coming in under the recovery program Roosevelt last night backed the Administrator's words with a presidential order virtue fulfilling Johnson's prediction.

Roosevelt, at the summer White House, issued an executive order that all government contracts would be cancelled if the contractor did not comply with the recovery code. Government contracts eventually will include a big part of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund.

Says Public Must Buy
At almost the hour the presidential order was issued, Johnson in an address at Baltimore, said that "the public must buy now, it must buy under the Blue Eagle and it must buy to the full of its responsible and prudent needs." This, said the Administrator, was "nothing less than the point of success or failure" in the entire recovery program.

The campaign, Johnson predicted, would intensify during the next three weeks toward "complete saturation of the country" with the spirit of the recovery program.

With its buying campaign definitely launched, the NRA pressed its efforts to swing more industries under recovery codes designed to raise pay and create more jobs.

TROUBLE IN ANDORRA.

Citizens of the tiny little republic of Andorra are living up to their reputation for independence and stubbornness in defying the authorities of France and Spain.

Andorra somehow has contrived to maintain its freedom since the days of Charlemagne, governing itself with a council elected by the heads of families. And the Andorrans intend to continue to manage their own affairs, even if they have to go to war to do it.

The republic is under the joint suzerainty of France and the Spanish bishops of Urgel. Lately there have been disputes between the French and the Andorran council. The French ordered all armed forces placed at the disposal of their police agent in Andorra. The order was disobeyed and when the suzerains named a new council, the old one refused to disband.

Andorrans came down from their mountains and up from their valleys on foot and on mules, armed with all sorts of weapons, to protect their council and prevent seizure of the capital.

The citizens of Andorra number only a few more than 5000, and of course must yield to France if she insists on having her own way. It is to be hoped the difficulties won't be serious, for peaceful, pastoral Andorra is just about the only spot in Europe that has remained untroubled by the woes that have afflicted the rest of the world.

SWIFT JUSTICE BEST.

Judges of the criminal courts in Chicago have decided to forego their vacations in order to help the war on crime. They will sit during the summer to clean up crowded dockets on which are listed charges against some of the city's most notorious gangsters.

Judges in other crime-ridden communities might well follow the example of those in Chicago. One of the chief obstacles to enforcing the law is delay in the courts. Convictions frequently are made difficult or impossible because crowded dockets or the maneuverings of defense lawyers are able to postpone trials. Every day's delay makes presentation of evidence more difficult for prosecutors.

Moreover, swift justice is infinitely more effective in deterring crime. A criminal who knows he will be brought quickly to book will hesitate a lot longer than one who knows his possible conviction may be put off and perhaps circumvented. The term "nolle prosequere" is familiar to every court house reporter; usually it means that the prosecutor has dropped charges against someone because he no longer believes he can get a conviction.

Crime never takes a vacation. There is no reason why justice should.

CONFIDENCE IN UNCLE SAM.

Confidence in the government and a belief that economic conditions are definitely on the mend are reflected in the quick oversubscription of the government's new issue of bonds and notes.

While the offering was for $850,000,000, it is now probable that more than a billion in obligations will be issued. Short-term loans of $920,000,000 fall due this month and next, and proceeds of the loan will go for their retirement. Conversion of the so-called floating debt into long-term bonds and notes is regarded as desirable by the government, since it does away with the necessity for constant refinancing.

Success of this issue—the first since 1931—augurs well for the future borrowing that will be necessary in connection with the recovery program.

The husky shark swam very fast. "Oh, gee, how long will this trip last?" yelled Cpppy. "I'm afraid that I am going to lose my trip."

"Oh, my, you had better change your mind," yelled Scouty. "You'll be left behind. Just keep your hands and feet good and tight and then they will not slip."

So, on they went. Soon Windy said, "There's Shrimpy, and he's far ahead. Come on, here, shark. Show us some speed. We want to win this race."

Just then "wee" Cpppy shouted, "We've reached the play ground of the sea. Look at the other Tynmites. You'd think they owned the place."

The shark whirled 'round 'and then it stopped. Down to the sand the Tynmites dropped. "Hey, welcome," shouted Doty. "Gee, we are having lots of fun."

"We've found a porpoise who is kind. We slide on him. He doesn't mind. Just watch me for a minute and I'll show you how it's done."

Then to the porpoise Shrimpy said, "Come on, big fellow put your head high on the great big rock again. We are going to slide down here."

"The Tynmites are very light and everything will be all right. I know you won't slide fast enough to make your big back sore."

The porpoise did as he was told, and down his back the Tynmites all rolled. "Watch me go on my little tummy," shouted Duncy with a smile.

He started way up at the top, and half way down he took a flop. "Gee, that's enough," he shouted. "I am going to rest a while."

Then Shrimpy cried, "Look! Here is a treat. I will slide down, standing on my feet. Be ready now to catch me, just in case I take a spill."

The Tynmites watched him whiz along, and not a single thing went wrong. When Shrimpy reached the bottom, Windy said, "My, what a thrill!"

mous instincts which make war inevitable. Almost to a man they answered, "No! They are fiction. It is an awful jolt, but we must get used to it."

Yes, it is time to renovize our souls. A lot of old greeds, grudges, fears and prejudices must be swept away, and forgotten.

Everyday Religion

LET'S RENOVIZE

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

In my town a movement is afoot to renovize our homes and offices, make repairs we have neglected, and so make jobs for men.

During the slump we let things go, afraid to make a move, not knowing what might happen next. Now that the grip of panic has relaxed, we are urged to clean house and the idea is spreading fast.

So far good. But why not renovize our minds a bit; they need cleaning up too. All married men know those annual upheavals which our wives revel in. From cellar to attic they clean up, overhaul, take stock, dust and sweep. It is a terrible time, and we men flee for our lives. Yet it is a good thing to do now and then, in behalf of health.

What we playfully call our thinking needs to be over-hauled today. Some of our pet ideas, deemed wise in other days, look silly—if not sick. The plain fact is that they are just so much rubbish, and ought to be thrown away. It is no good keeping so much junk to litter up our minds, even if it does hurt our vanity to admit our folly.

How glibly we used to say "Competition is the life of trade!" Well, today it looks like the death of trade. A few years ago the idea of an eight-hour day was taboo, but it is not so any longer. We are actually trying to devise a new leisure-craft for the days ahead of us. Things once dim have become clear as the kinks in our minds are ironed out.

It used to be a final argument: "War will go on because man has ineradicable fighting instincts." But the other day five hundred psychologists were asked if they knew anything about these fa-

DELICIOUS CEREAL
OVERCOMES COMMON
CONSTIPATIONALL-BRAN Provides "Bulk,"
Vitamin B and Iron

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN meets a basic need of the American dietary. It supplies "bulk"—so helpful in correcting common constipation. In eleven years, ALL-BRAN has won millions of satisfied users.

New tests show added reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN. Laboratory experiments prove that, in addition to "bulk," it provides vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from constipation can be overcome by this pleasant cereal. How much better than using pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN is mild. Its "bulk" is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Two tablespoons daily are sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Another benefit of ALL-BRAN is that it has twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. Tempting recipes using the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Only things true, tried and worth-while ought to be kept. We need the eye of a fresh mind if we are to see straight, and do what must be done. It is time to sweep, dust, ventilate and reorder our minds! (Copyright 1933, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Sidelights In News In Capital
Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—There are ways and ways of getting to congress. Being associated with the house or senate in minor positions often has paved the way for a clerk of a committee or a secretary of a member to win a seat in his own right.

Perhaps the most outstanding example is that of "Young Bob" LaFollette of Wisconsin. Senator LaFollette can remember as a boy following his father around on his campaign tours in Wisconsin. Later he became his father's secretary.

"Young Bob's" remarks in the senate are often punctuated with reference to his associations with his father. In the closing hours of the special session he conducted a fight for publicity of income tax returns. He admitted at the time that he was merely continuing a crusade launched years ago "by my illustrious father."

There are two other senators in the present congress who began their political careers in minor capacities on capitol hill. And there are numerous representatives who trace their political origin to that source.

UP, UP, UP!
Senator Wallace H. White, Jr., republican of Maine, was an assistant clerk to the senate committee on commerce and also served as secretary to the president of the senate and the late Senator William P. Frye of Maine.

Bennett Champ Clark, democratic senator from Missouri, served as parliamentarian of the house under his father, the late Speaker Champ Clark.

Representative Ramspeck of Georgia served as chief clerk in the house post office in 1911 as well as secretary to William Schley Howard, member of congress in 1912.

Representative Chavez served as a clerk in the senate in 1918-19 and is now a representative-at-large from New Mexico.

Representative Cochran of Michigan served as secretary to the late William J. Stone and clerk to the senate committee on foreign relations.

EVOLUTION

Representative McLean of New Jersey was a page in the senate in 1897 and also was private secretary to Senator John Kean of New Jersey from 1902 to 1911.

Mrs. Florence P. Kahn of California and Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, now members of the house, were associated in the offices of their husbands when they were representatives from their respective states.

Paul Kvale, senior sitting member in the house of the farmer-labor party, was elected to fill the vacancy from Minnesota occasioned by the sudden death of his father.

South Trimble, clerk of the house, reserved the order. He is a former representative from Kentucky, first serving as a representative and then as an official.

And Edwin A. Halsey, secretary of the senate, came to that body in the capacity of a page and served in various minor roles of the senate before being elected its secretary.

Daily Health Talk

CHRONIC LEG ULCERS

Chronic ulcers of the leg constitute a serious and annoying medical problem. They are sometimes painful, frequently debilitating and always distressing.

The fundamental cause of chronic ulcers of the leg is a disturbance in the blood circulation of the leg, usually retardation of circulation in the veins.

Among the specific causes of chronic ulcers of the leg may be listed repeated pregnancies, infections of the veins, incidental to childbirth, varicose veins, inflammation of the veins, syphilis, inflammatory processes about the veins and local injury.

Most of the chronic ulcers of the leg develop in the lower two-thirds in the shin region. Seldom are they seen in the foot proper. They are most common in the middle and later years of life.

The treatment of chronic leg ulcers has proved difficult. Whenever and wherever it is possible treatment should begin with the removal of their cause.

Prolonged rest in bed has been successful in healing certain types of ulcers but the rest treatment, while successful in healing the ulcer itself, does not guarantee against its recurrence under the force of the conditions originally responsible.

Of late, in addition to rest, two other procedures have been applied with a substantial degree of success. External compression has been applied to the affected limb to support venous circulation, and wherever this has been indicated, stagnation has been obliterated.

In extensive ulcers the treatment has been further amplified by implanting minute portions of healthy skin taken from other parts of the body.

THREE GUESSES

These methods of treatment have served to shorten the period of bed rest required and have, in suitable cases, made it possible for the patient to go about his business, but not all cases of chronic ulcer of the leg yield to these methods of attack and may require others.

DIXON SOLDIERS DUE BACK HOME EARLY SUNDAY

Boys Uncertain About Fate Of Handel's Gift Horse

By Sgt. Wolfe, Corp. Ketchen

Camp Grant, Aug. 8.—Genial First Sergeant Handel was rudely awakened about 2 A. M. this morning by a guard who told him that if he was to have a horse in this camp he was to keep it in the stable and not leave it tied to the front porch of his tent. This surprised the sergeant more than somewhat as he wasn't aware that in infantry sergeant was entitled to a "horse." He complied with the guard's request gladly however, and returned the equine to the stables in his wall-paper pajamas and bed-dipped feet—the sergeant's—not the horse's. The first sergeant, like anyone else in this camp, likes his sleep about 2 A. M., and was a little nettled at the behavior of some of his boys at the time, but his morning at reveille he enjoyed as much as any of them. Who presented the four-footed gift to one seems to quite remember, that is long enough to tell the sergeant, but it is safe to presume that if whoever it was found out, he will spend quite a time massaging dishes in the mess hall.

The news of the sergeant's gift spread quickly and this morning right after mess some of the members of the regiment band came over to stage an impromptu concert—some of the selections being "Barney Google," "The Old Gray Mare," "Down on the Farm," etc. A parade was quickly formed with the sergeant at the head and the whole battalion got quite a kick out of the celebration.

The Century of Progress committee has made it possible for every man to purchase a book of concession tickets for a small sum to be taken out of the camp pay check. This makes it possible for every man to see some of the exhibits at the Fair that are not free, and for each to have the same advantage. As far as is known our company will strike tents late Thursday and enroute for Chicago sometime early Friday morning, arriving in the Fair city about noon. It is thought that the troops will encamp in Soldiers Field Friday night and enjoy all day Saturday and Saturday evening at the Century of Progress.

"A" company is due out of Chicago via the Chicago and Northwestern R. R., at 12:01 Sunday morning, arriving in Dixon about 4 o'clock. This company furnished the guard for the regimental area for twenty-four hours beginning at 1 P. M. Sunday. A formal guard mount was staged and Captain Dixon was congratulated by staff officers, and was told that it was the best guard mount presented in this year's camp.

Some mischievous members of the company have just driven Corporal Wood's diminutive Ford car into the tent occupied by privates Fred Stanley and Robert Frazz—and presumably intend to leave it tarred there for the night.

Privates Glen Rutherford, Weldon White, Fred "Killer" Hess, Francis Kennedy, Gilbert Conibear and Harold Nimz apparently forgot the time that they were supposed to be in camp Saturday night and due to the early hour of their arrival on Sunday morning spent a few hours behind the bars of the Military Police brig, until such time as the proper authorities could arrange for their release. As a result some of them have had considerable since in the more menial tasks attached to the cooking and feeding end of camp life.

The fame of Corporal Don Hollingsworth as a tenuous artist is spreading, and quite a few freshly barbered heads are to be seen, not only in our company street but in several others as well.

Sergeant "Scissor-bill" Adams.

SAFETY FIRST

Gene Sarazen has been known to take plenty of chances on the golf course, but when it comes to going up for an airplane ride, he's careful. Above you see the former British and U. S. Open champ torqued out in helmet, goggles and parachute as he came down at Elmira, N. Y.

our mess sergeant, will soon be spouting gray hairs if the razzing about the daily grub keeps up. The food is especially good this year, but even if it was the highest priced quality to be found, the boys would still have to register an imaginary kick.

Frank Howe the superintendent of the Welfare relief farm is a cook this year and he spends considerable time worrying about his turnips and carrots.

Richard Jackson Poole and John Flock, both privates in the company from Polo, have been receiving nicely scented letters from the Ogle County town daily.

Clinton "Smoker" Compton, also of Polo, who started as student cook here this year has been promoted to cook.

Adamo Pazzi spent the evening here tonight and we are certainly glad to see him.

Polo—Mrs. Margaret Savage and Miss Stata Burke entertained at bridge Wednesday evening at the Dixon Coffee Shop, in honor of Mrs. Pauline (Myers) Grant. Miss Martha Niman won first prize, Mrs. Carol Coffman, second prize and Miss Evelyn Knies, the consolation prize. Mrs. Grant was awarded a lovely guest favor.

Rev. and Mrs. J. V. Bischoff and sons went to Oakdale Thursday, where they will attend a camp meeting for ten days. There will be no service at the Evangelical church during their absence from Sunday Aug. 13 to Aug. 20.

Mrs. S. C. Phalen and sons, who have been visiting the former's mother, Mrs. J. T. McGrath returned to their home at Sparta, Wis., Thursday.

Joe Nicholas and Ed McGrath spent from Tuesday until Thursday in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cavanaugh arrived from Worland, Wyo., last Tuesday and are guests in the Wm. and Henry Cavanaugh and Frank Doyle homes.

Mrs. C. J. Hoitz and children of Decatur, who have been visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Poole, returned home the first of the week.

A BOOK A DAY

Tammanyism is human nature's basest but ever-present side, a constant reminder that self-government must be newly won each year.

With this warning James E. Finagan, one of the anti-organization Democrats in New York, who formulated the charges of waste and inefficiency against Jimmy Walker last year, opens his book, "Tammany at Bay," in which he surveys New York's chances of getting something like a decent city government out of the elections this fall.

The one thing Tammany fears, he remarks, is its own record. The damning facts that have been brought to light about the kind of administration it has been giving New York in the last few years, he says is enough to beat it this fall—if things are handled right.

And yet, he warns, simply raking over the old scandals will not do. The indictments against Tammany in the approaching campaign must be up-to-the-minute, if they are to succeed. Not otherwise will Tammany be kept on the defensive in the mayoralty fight.

In the last weeks before election, Mr. Finagan points out, the 1934 budget must be drawn up and the 1934 assessments must be published. The relief scandals will be at their worst. If the opposition capitalizes on the talking points which these things are sure to give it, Tammany will get licked.

Being a practical politician, Mr. Finagan goes on to mention certain maneuvers which must accompany a winning fight. And he warns, in closing, that "unless we are so discouraged and debauched that we despair of self-government, Tammany must be beaten."

It is your duty to carry Accident Insurance. If you use an automobile you can protect your family to the amount of $1,000 for 1 year for $1.25.

VETERAN NEWS MAN WRITES OF HIS TRAVELING

Says Hitch-Hiking Is Becoming A Thing Of The Past

(Note—The writer of this article is a veteran newspaper man of 37 years experience during which time he held responsible positions with some of the foremost daily publications in the United States. Forced by necessity rather than choice he has been touring the United States and because of his experience and observations is able to offer good advice to the younger generation on what to do in the present economic crisis. He is a native of New England but now makes his permanent home in Texas.)

By W. E. Burbank
Hitch-hiking as a method of transportation for unemployed men who are travelling from city to city in an effort to secure work, or odd jobs to provide for the necessities of life, is becoming a thing of the past rapidly, like many other good things. It is with this host of nomads that a have been linked for 18 months and during this time I have covered more than 12,000 miles over the nation's highways. Illinois ranks as one of the hardest states in which to hail a motorist for a lift on one's journey with Missouri and Louisiana in about the same position. By way of illustration it took me seven hours recently to make the 28 mile stretch between Rockford and Freeport and last week I was all day getting from Chicago to Joliet.

Useless Near Chicago
Within a radius of 50 miles of Chicago it is almost useless to attempt a hitch-hike trip and this is due to several causes. Outstanding among them is the fact that drivers of automobiles fear men now in that territory because so many desperate characters are running in and out of Chicago during the World's Fair.

It was a delight Thursday morning when I met a chap in DeKalb who whisked me through to Dixon in quick time. From previous experiences in this section I had anticipated it would require most of the day's "flagging" before I would be able to get through. It so happened that the chap who took me in is recently out of college and he gave me the young man's slant on the business situation.

American youths who have been reared in pleasant surroundings and given the benefit of a higher education with the expectation that they would be able, as a result, to step into a position upon being graduated, can not adapt themselves to conditions as they actually find them, he said. Hence a "spirit of unrest" soon develops and they take to the road, going on and on in search of the elusive job.

Many Lads Roaming
There are at present more than 300,000 lads between the ages of 16 and 22 aimlessly roaming about the country and social welfare workers everywhere are alarmed at the situation as it exists today. It was expected that with the revival of business relations in the country this spirit of wanderlust which has gripped the younger generation would abate but up to the present time it has not. Of that I am convinced because in my roving I see fully as many youngsters lined up along the highways in this part of the country as ever. Every freight train, too, is carrying about the same quota of "free passengers" as heretofore.

While in Wisconsin the number of hitch-hikers was more pronounced and I learned that many of them were deserters from a forestation camp north of Madison.

Gives Good Advice
Right at this time I advise young men now on the tramp to return to their homes and to those contemplating a trip either over the highways or by freight trains to abandon the idea. Every city and town in the United States is facing a serious problem as to how they will provide for their unfortunate residents during the approaching winter. Not only have public treasuries been depleted but charitable organizations and individuals have gone broke because of past demands upon them and to way in sight at present to raise relief funds.

As to getting over the highways, robberies, assaults and even murders perpetrated allegedly by hitch-hikers have been so widely broadcast over the air and in press that motorists fear to pick up a stranger no matter how good their intentions at heart may be. On the other hand a man hiking his way does not know what sort of a person may be offering him a lift. I have known of a driver picking up a man fairly well dressed and then, at a deserted section of the highway, robbing him at the point of a gun. There is another chance anyone takes in riding with a stranger. The "good fellow" may have a stolen car and if caught with him the rider is apt to be held as an accomplice in the theft.

Element of Danger
Besides these situations there enters the element of danger because if an accident occurs and a person riding with any motorist has no recourse to recover damages if injured. Some insurance companies forbid their risks from carrying strangers.

Business conditions in this section of Illinois are better than in the southern part of the state or in Missouri and Indiana. Traveling men tell me that their orders have been increasing in a degree greater than expected during the last few weeks. Some merchants have bought a bill of goods for the first time in many months. They are apparently stocking up to be prepared for a good Fall business.

A Word About NRA
Now a word about this NRA movement to put men back to work and restore the purchasing power of the masses of people which has been nil so long. Reports from everywhere are to the effect that business men and manufacturers have been quick to respond to the appeal from Washington. Some cities already report a 100 per cent mark and every store and factory in those cities displays the Blue Eagle, now becoming so familiar to everyone. But, on good authority, I say that many of these "patriotic" citizens are double crossing the intentions of President Roosevelt and proving "traitors" to the cause, as it were. To be sure they adjust the hours of work to the codes of their respective lines and then proceed to devise ways to beat the game.

I know cases where double the amount of work has been required. In others hours have been reduced but the scale of pay changed from a weekly to an hourly basis so that workers really get less than formerly. In spite of requests from Washington prices have commenced to advance at too rapid a pace as the interpretation of "We Do Our Part" has been taken as "We Double Our Profits."

This class of violations, of course, will be weeded out in time.

GOOD THOUGHTS

Yea in the way of thy judgment O Lord, have we waited for thee; the desire of our soul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee. With my soul have I desired thee in the night; yea, with my spirit within me will I seek thee early.

—Isaiah.

Faith grasps the blessing she desires. Hope points the upward gaze; And Love, celestial Love, inspires The eloquence of praise.

—Harriet Martineau.

What we seek, we shall find; what we flee from, flees from us.

—Emerson.

There is no inborn longing that shall not be fulfilled. I think that is as certain as the forgiveness of sins.

—George MacDonald.

Desires are the pulse of the soul.

—Manton.

Can one desire too much of a good thing?

—Shakespeare.

As long as the heart preserves desire the mind preserves illusions.

—Chateaubriand.

The great desire of this life is for a doctrine which may serve to cleanse our knowledge, guide our researches, and shape our lives, so that conduct may really be the consequence of belief.

—G. H. Lewis.

It is safe to say that all true achievement begins with a desire. Before a step can be taken toward the attainment of any worthy object there must be some desire for such attainment.

Desire is, indeed, a potent factor in our affairs, and directs a greater part in determining our actions than we, perhaps, realize. Our desires indicate what we are and toward what we are striving.

The regular prayer meeting is postponed until Thursday evening in the vestry at 7:30.

The Dorcas ladies will meet on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the church parlors.

BRETHREN CHURCH
Wm. E. Thompson, Minister

Every member of our Sunday School should do their best to make the month of August a booster in attendance. June and July had the highest average in the history of the church, and we hope to complete the summer months by making August as good. Just a little help from each one will do the job, and we are counting on every member to help.

"Helping Others" will be the pastor's theme following Sunday school, and all are invited to this service. Sunday school will be at 9:30, and preaching at 10:30.

Our evening service will be of special interest. At 7:00 P. M. the Edwards Myers Family will give a thirty-minute program, which all should hear. Following this service a splendid program has been arranged on the subject of "We Reap

What We Sow," and will be given as follows:

Leader—Smith McWethy.
Scripture—Alice Emmert.
"We Are All Sowing." — Mrs. Marling Baker.
Solo—Claire Leach.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, secretly marries DICK RADER, a construction superintendent. Dick opposes her continued employment and pleads for a home but Eve is determined to go on working.

The same day Eve learns that she is to be sent to New York by the store and must leave that night. She does not tell Dick this news until they are at dinner. He sees her aboard her train.

In New York Eve meets FRIDA CARTER, dress buyer for Bixby's, who introduces her to THERON REECE. Reece is much attracted by Eve. He angers her by trying to kiss her in a taxi. Eve goes to see IRVING PRENTISS, a former schoolmate who is married and working in New York. Irene is playing the stock market and advises Eve to do the same.

At the end of a week Eve returns to Lake City. Dick meets her and takes her to the fashionable Hotel Miramar. They have their first quarrel that morning.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

DICK had stopped at the Y. W. C. A. for Eve's mail on his way to the station to meet her.

There was a large envelope from her mother, containing letters for her and for Dick. Eve's parents had been asked not to announce the marriage.

"Why, bless her heart!" said Dick. "It must have taken her a whole evening to write this. It's a great many years since anyone called me 'Dear Son'."

And indeed it had taken Mrs. Bayless a whole evening to compose that first painstaking letter to her new son-in-law. Kate Bayless, plump, patient and domestic, was suffering the tortures of rheumatic fingers incurred from years of hard toil in the interest of her family.

Henry Bayless—or "Hank" as he generally was known—was secretly proud of his wife and daughters and praised their achievements to outsiders. But it was his firm belief that encouragement would cause them to overdo and therefore their seldom heard these words of praise.

Soon after his marriage to Kate, Hank had established a small butcher and egg route. His earnings had been stretched with the utmost care to cover the cost of educating his two daughters, keep up the home and put by something for old age. It had been the dream of his life to have a business of his own. However, a large stock company gradually absorbed all the butter and egg routes of the neighborhood. Hank's with the rest. After that he secured work with a company manufacturing passenger elevators. His work was to assist in assembling the parts and check for possible errors.

Thrift was the watchword of the Bayless home. Hank had taught his family always to have the cash on hand before any purchase was made. For years he had set aside regularly a small sum to invest in the stock of the local manufacturing concern which had been built up from a small beginning by two of his friends in whom he had the greatest confidence. In the course of years the dividends from this investment became irregular and uncertain and it was whispered about that the company was not as stable as it had been. Hank stopped investing in the stock and increased his weekly deposits at the bank.

DESPITE all this careful saving and economizing, Kate Bayless had managed to lay by over the years a small but steadily growing accumulation of dollars. Unknown to Hank, she had deposited this money in a building and loan association.

Kate saved for this fund by un-

Lawrence river waterway treaty, giving Canada navigation rights on Lake Michigan, 633 square miles of which lies in Illinois.

"We have never suffered a diplomatic defeat in any conference greater than we suffered in the St. Lawrence waterway conference," he said. "Those pleasant Canadian gentlemen in the field of diplomacy have beaten us."

The treaty, he said, provided for the construction of the waterway with the United States paying nearly $243,000,000 of the bill while Canada would be assessed only $38,000,000. And he said, Canadian labor and materials were to be used on the project.

"The treaty is a splendid victory for the Canadians and a humiliating defeat for us," he said.

Speaker Rainey predicted defeat for the treaty when it comes before the Senate for confirmation and then attacked the purpose of the waterway.

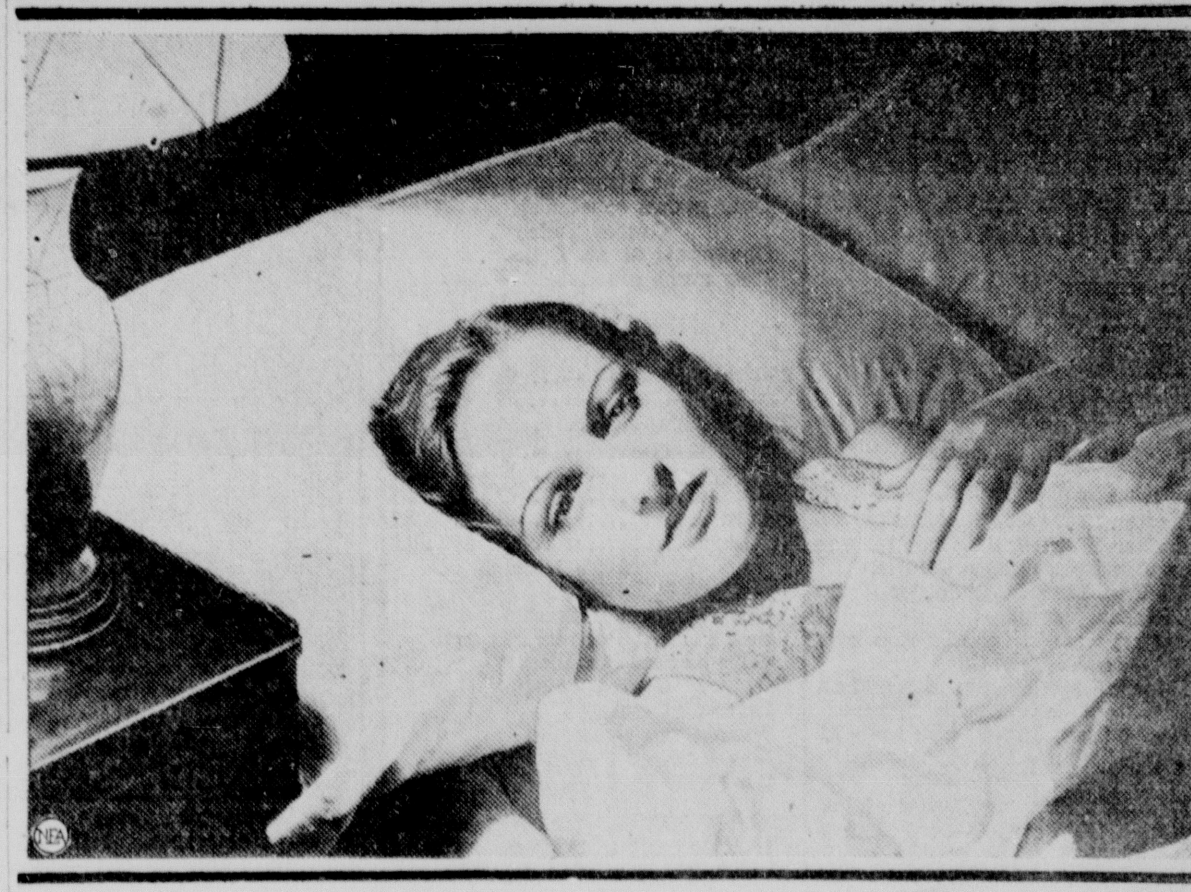

Horner Traced History
In telling the story of the development of Illinois and Chicago, Horner went back 100 years to the time when Indians lived and died on the location of what is now the nation's second largest city.

He traced the beginnings of the state to about 1673 with the visits of Marquette, LaSalle and Joliet and then jumped a century to 1763 when the British ousted the French and forever shattered their dream of a great empire in the new world.

"At the end of the Revolutionary War, Illinois started upon its real development and settlement," he said. "Settlers poured into the state from all directions."

From then until 1812, when the Governor said the state "was knocking at the door of the Union for admission as one of the states," he described the evolution of Illinois from a part of Virginia, the "County of Illinois," and a part of Indiana Territory.

During the years that followed Horner said most of the state's population centered near the confluence of the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and it was not until the 30's

Eve went to bed and lay there, sleepless.

Advertising Club. Eve had taken the only job she could get, clerking in the basement of a department store. Her father, figuring up the cost of Eve's education, grumbled when he learned how much she was earning.

"Probably do her a lot of good, though," he grunted. "She can use some of those six-cylinder words to sell bargains."

In just what way this experience was to benefit Eve her father would have been surprised could he have heard her that same week delivering a protest against blatant advertising before her class. It happened that there were several advertising executives in the audience and among them was Earle Barnes of Bixby's store.

"That girl is made of good stuff," Barnes commented to the man beside him. Months later he recognized Eve when she applied to him for a job.

Eve's work in the advertising office at Bixby's was a source of gratification to her parents. This latest surprise—her marriage to Dick Rader whom her father and mother had never seen—was received with mixed feelings.

Kate prayed that her daughter had found a good husband. "The money—that comes with time and age if you work hard enough," she had written Eve in her simple, kindly way. "If he is a good man—that is everything."

Eve had written Dick that she would wait to have breakfast with him the morning she returned from New York, so he had ordered the belated meal sent to their suite. He suggested having dinner served there too, but Eve preferred to dine in the hotel restaurant.

She was donning a new brown velvet frock for the occasion when the telephone rang. She thought it must be Dick, calling from the main floor where he had gone for tobacco. Or perhaps some one connected with the hotel management.

"Hello," she answered.

"Is Mr. Rader there?" A woman's voice—low, urgent, distressed—came over the wire.

A DOZEN distorted thoughts flashed through Eve's head. What woman could be wanting Dick? What woman knew he was here? And why that anxious tone of voice?

"Mr. Rader is not here at the moment," she answered, trying to conceal her surprise. "Do you wish to leave a message?"

"If you think he'll be back within a few minutes I'll hold the line, please."

Dick returned just then. "The call is for you," Eve said. She went into the bedroom, closing the door behind her. She sat down before the dressing table and busied herself with powder puff and lipstick. She could not hear Dick's words but thought she detected deep concern in his voice. A moment later he tapped on the door.

"Eve," he said, crossing the room in two strides and reaching for his overcoat. "I've got to go down town. Something's happened on the job. I can't wait to explain—don't know exactly what it's all about yet. I'm sorry!" The words were clipped off by a hastily closed door.

Eve returned to the living room and sat down to await his return. She was going to be reasonable about this she assured herself. It was very strange, though, to say the least. Why should that woman have called? If anything really had happened connected with his work, surely the watchman or one of the other men connected with the construction project would have telephoned.

Two hours passed, three hours—and still Dick did not return. Neither did he telephone. Eve slipped off her velvet frock and hung it away. Mechanically she applied cleansing cream to her face and removed the make-up. She was furious. By now she was convinced that Dick was trying to teach her a lesson. He was showing her what she had shown him—that work comes first and a honeymoon second. Eve was hungry, too. She had had nothing to eat since breakfast, but she resisted her desire to order a tray of food sent up to the room. She went to bed at last and lay there, sleepless.

That woman! Eve could still hear the low, distressed voice. Was she, perhaps, some one who had been of importance in Dick's life; some one to whom he was still of first importance?

WINDUP BOUTS AT THE MAPLES FULL OF ACTION

But One Knockout Is Scored At Weekly Outdoor Show

FIGHT RESULTS

Keith Graves, Peoria, won over Sylvester Crawford, St. Charles. Walter Mathys, St. Charles, won over Tommy Eppinger, Peoria. McLean Wallick, Ladd, won over Al Reeder, Peoria. August Vellei, Ladd, won over Ward Adams, Peoria. Howard Miller, St. Charles, knocked out John Novak, Ladd. Ray Wilson, Dixon, won over Al Bonstall, Spring Valley.

What the first four fights of last evening's Dixon A. C. card lacked in action, was made up for in the last two events which gave the fans all of the action anticipated between the best amateur talent available in the northern section of the state. Keith Graves of Peoria, who has appeared before local crowds on previous occasions, a Golden Glove runner-up, stepped into the ring with Sylvester Crawford of St. Charles, National Golden Glove champ, in the main bout of the evening. Both were veterans of many fights and were in fine condition. Crawford missed many leads throughout the three rounds and was largely on the receiving end of the action. Graves was somewhat cautious in the first round but in the second came out with his career pose and displayed plenty of his own wares, landing the majority of the blows. The third was about a repetition of the second and Graves was declared the winner of the match.

In the fifth bout, the first of the double windup feature, Referee Jack Sharkey halted the battle in the first minute of the second round. Walter Mathys, whom local fans would like to see again, gave Tommy Eppinger of Peoria plenty to do. Both are Golden Glove champions and were anxious for a win. Eppinger, who is colored, went well in the opening of the first but just before the close of the session, Mathys slipped over a hard right which landed squarely in Eppinger's face as he staggered back against the ropes and the gong sounded, which was in the Peorian's favor.

Referee Stopped Bout

As the pair came out of their corners in the second round, Mathys, who had assumed a protective and cautious stance in approaching his opponent, loosened up some powerful punches and ripped another stinging blow to the face of Eppinger. The wallop opened a long gash on the Peorian's upper lip, which bled freely and Referee Sharkey stepped between the two, raising Mathys's hand as winner of the bout by a technical knockout. McLean Wallick of Ladd and Al Reeder, colored Peoria boxer, went three dummy rounds which ended in Wallick's favor. Most of the fighting was at close quarters when both swung viciously and each sustained some damage.

Ward Adams of Peoria and August Vellei of Ladd punched a way for three rounds when the latter was declared the winner in the decision rendered by the judges. Adams had a habit of rabbit punching in clinches and at the opening of the third round Referee Sharkey halted the fight long enough to warn the Peorians against repetition of these tactics.

Howard Miller of the St. Charles stable of boxers who made their first appearance before the local fans last evening, giving an excellent account of themselves, met Johnny Novak of Ladd. Miller showed plainly his ability to take punishment, but judging from the result this was all for a purpose, as he waited until the first round was about over, when he broke through Novak's guard and sent a stinging right to the jaw which was sufficient to win for Miller by the knockout route, the only one of the evening.

Ray Wilson, Dixon's heavyweight, who has yet to lose a battle and has a string of knockouts to his credit, met a tough but inexperienced customer in Al Bonstall of Spring Valley in the first event on the program. The two battled punched away at each other for the entire distance of three rounds, Wilson getting the decision.

Queen Helen Takes Workout: Says She Is In Good Shape

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 11—(AP)—Helen Williams, who was forced to withdraw from the Wightman Cup event because of a slightly wrenched back, is satisfied that she is in condition again to play her finest brand of tennis in pursuit of her eighth national singles title in the championships starting here Monday.

For an hour yesterday she practiced, concentrating on play at the net, then moving to the back court for forehand and backhand driving. She drilled on service and her overhead game, with all her shots working well. No scores were kept. Mrs. Moody, in fine spirits, said afterward that she was satisfied with her game and condition, considering the layoff she was forced to take. She planned another drill today.

Great Grandmother Heroine Of Regina, Sask. Golf Tourney

Regina, Sask., Aug. 11—(AP)—A "young" lady of 63, Mrs. T. McLellan of Weyburn, Sask., is the heroine of the opening day's play in the annual Saskatchewan ladies golf tournament.

While friends of her age were content to wrestle with a bit of knitting on the club porch, Mrs. McLellan marched out and battled Mrs. Perry of Regina in the first round. She came from behind to square her match at the 18th but lost out one down on the last extra hole.

Mrs. McLellan is a great-grandmother.

Pa Dutra Is Pretty Proud

The Dutra boys seem to be handling the P. G. A. golf tournament to suit themselves. Last year Olin won the national pro tourney and this year, in the match staged at Milwaukee, his brother, Mortie, tied with Jimmy Hines of New York for the medal, with a score of 135. Above, the defending champ, Olin, left, is shown congratulating his brother after the qualifying round.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Youth Will Be Served—

Several of the boys of the diamond whose names used to flash in the headlines regularly, are scheduled to do a graceful fadeout soon. In their places you'll find impetuous youths, energetic, very flighty, but on their way to stardom.

Joe Cronin's pennant-bound crew has one little fellow who is on the way out, destined to be replaced by a kid who made good in his first trip up the ladder. The oldest— he is not so old in years—is Ossie Bluge, and the youngster is Cecil Travis, the kid the Senators brought up in a hurry from Chattanooga this year.

Ossie has made a fine little third baseman for the Senators. His play has been sterling, yet not sensational, and he has slowly slipped until he must hand over his hot corner to one of springer steps.

When Ossie was laid up early in the season, Travis came a-runnin' to take his place. His first day at bat he collected five bingles and won himself the job of successor to Ossie.

Exit Mr. Coombs—

The Yanks have a similar situation, with the bearded Earle Coombs ready for a fadeout. Earle has been a bludgeoning employee of the Ruppert crowd for a number of years, and his services have been valued. But Old Father Time, not too kind to all players, has made his demands, and a youngster named Dixie Walker, the son of old Dixie Walker, has made his bid for the job.

McCarthy has been playing the youngster out in the field quite a bit here lately, outside of a weakness in the field, Walker has all the makings of a star.

The case of Travis Jackson and Blondy Ryan is along the same line. Jackson, one of the greatest shortstops to ever grace a Giant uniform, has age of the knee. That floating member, which has been drained at intervals, has unquestionably shortened his career.

The gent to step into his shoes this year was young Blondy Ryan. The fighting youngster is every thing Jackson was at his best and his peppy play is what has inspired the Giants to league-leading heights.

Can't Last Forever—

Mickey Cochran has been scheduled for the boneyard ever since the Cards won that world series from the Athletics. In his prime one of the greatest catchers who ever lived, the Mick isn't far from the shelving point.

Connie Mack has secured a youngster in Eddie Majeski, who will don the wind pad when old Mickey folds up.

Then there's Billy Brubaker for Pie Traynor in the Pirates' camp. Van Atta for Herb Pennock down Yankee way, "Bad News" Hale for Bill Cissell in the Indians' tent and Jimmy Jordan for Glenn Wright in the Dodgers' lineup.

DID YOU KNOW—

Tommy Bridges, Detroit hurler, beat the Senators five times in a row last year and has three out of four decisions over them so far this year. Six sons and one daughter of former Hambletonian winner of the 1900 Olympic Games, Charles, S. C. 5 and 3; Goslin eliminated Al Espinoza, Akron Ohio, 9 and 7 the most one-sided victory of the day; Creavy defeated Frank Walsh, Chicago, 1932 finalist, 2 and 1; Golden turned back Bobby Cruckshank in a tight struggle, 2 and 1; Dundie defeated Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., 3 and 1 and Runyan one down at noon, came back to eliminate John Revolta of Menominee, Mich., 2 and 1.

BROUILLARD IS ANXIOUS TITLE BE MADE ISSUE

Suggests N.B.A. Nominate Fighter He Must Defeat

New York, Aug. 11—(AP)—Young Lucien Brouillard of Worcester, Mass., the first southpaw fighter in ring annals to win two titles, has an upstanding suggestion to make as to how he can clear all question of his right to the second one.

Brouillard, who won and lost the welterweight championship over a period of two title fights when he was 20 years old, just two years ago, belted Ben Jeby in the stomach until that young man pulled his guard down in the huge Polo Grounds Wednesday night, then nailed him with one finishing left to the jaw in the seventh round. Jeby was recognized as the New York State Athletic Commission as middle weight champion of the world. The National Boxing Association considers Gorilla Jones of Akron, O. the champion and overseas the Europeans have set up Marcel Thil of France as the 150 pound ruler.

Brouillard addressed himself to the N. B. A. today.

"If the National Boxing Association will name an opponent and agree to recognize the winner as their champion, I'll fight him any time they say," he announced boldly. "Then I'll fight Thil and we'll have just one champion. After that I want to fight Maxie Rosenbloom for the light heavyweight title."

Brouillard has agreed to two matches here under the promotion of Tim Mara, who introduced him to New York the night he whipped Jimmy McLarin, and then gave him his chance against Jeby. Opponents will not be named until, and if, he hears from the National Boxing Association.

If you have something to sell and are in a big hurry to sell it, let the classified advertising department of The Dixon Telegraph prove its ability as a speedy and efficient sales medium.

NEW CHAMPION OF PRO GOLFERS THIS YEAR SURE

Johnny Farrell Pushed Olin Dutra Off Throne On Thursday

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 11—(AP)—(AP)—Gone was Olin Dutra, the defending titleholder, but surging forward were six powerful contenders and a pair of die-hards of the "dark horse" ranks, as the long struggle for the National Professional Golf championship headed toward the semi-final salient at Blue Mound today.

Leading the dwindling field in a golfing duel that has routed par from the first day were Gene Sarazen, dead serious in his quest to land a major title after losing the American and British open championships, and Johnny Farrell famed stylist from New York, who topped Dutra off his throne yesterday in a thrilling match that ended with a conquest over partial stymie on the thirty-sixth hole.

Both Sarazen and Farrell had lively engagements ahead of them today in the quarter-finals of the lower bracket. Gene meeting Ed Dudley, a noted performer from Wilmington, Del.; and Farrell clashing with one of the most stubborn foemen of golf, Johnny Golden of Noroton, Conn. Gene and Johnny were favored but a defeat for either was far from a remote possibility.

Action Promised

The other quarter-final matches also promised action. John Hines of New York, co-medalist, matched shots against the deliberate and silent Tom Creavy of Albany N. Y., the 1931 champion, and Paul Runyan, Ryder Cup star and big money winner in last winter's campaign, tackled the outstanding surprise of the tournament, Willie Goggin, 29-year-old long distance marksman from Salada Beach, Cal., and leader of the sustained attack on par all week.

All matches were over 36 holes with morning and afternoon round of 18 holes each, an element that favored the more experienced championship contenders.

Farrell Stole Show

Farrell whacking the same prize approach shots that carried him to victory over Bobby Jones in the National Open play-off at Olympia Fields five years ago, stole the show yesterday by turning back a stubborn bid by the champion. He tossed a 68, two under par, at Dutra in the morning to draw away to a three-up lead, and kept drilling away in the afternoon until he held a five-hole margin at the 28th. The tottering champion then opened up a great rally, winning five of the next seven, but Farrell stopped him and negotiated a partial stymie for his half in par on the final green to win the match.

Sarazen, shooting sub-par, advanced with a 4 and 3 victory over Harry Cooper of Chicago on the tide of a 32 on the back nine of the morning that gave him a lead he never relinquished. Hines survived by defeating Henry Picard, Charleston, S. C. 5 and 3; Goslin eliminated Al Espinoza, Akron Ohio, 9 and 7 the most one-sided victory of the day; Creavy defeated Frank Walsh, Chicago, 1932 finalist, 2 and 1; Golden turned back Bobby Cruckshank in a tight struggle, 2 and 1; Dundie defeated Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., 3 and 1 and Runyan one down at noon, came back to eliminate John Revolta of Menominee, Mich., 2 and 1.

White Sox Equal Last Year's Mark

Chicago, Aug. 11—(AP)—The cold figures revealed today that the purchase of Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes and Mule Haas from the Athletics has wrought tangible improvement in the Chicago White Sox.

Louis Comiskey's team was in sixth place and anything but a title contender, but it had won 49 games. Last year the Sox won 49 games all season. They still have 49 games left of their 1933 program.

The gent above figures that on the night of Aug. 9 the New York Boxing Commission's mid-dewweight championship is going to change hands. He is Lou Brouillard, New Englander, who is to fight Ben Jeby, titleholder, that night. The bout is to be staged in New York.

Max Baer Will Let Carnera Win In Second Round!!

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Aug. 11—(AP)—Shhh! The biggest scandal of the year has broken wide open in boxing. Max Baer has agreed to be knocked out by Primo Carnera in two rounds.

Authority for that statement comes direct from the manager of Verma himself, Louis L. Sorelli, the little Italian banker who took over the huge Italian's affairs where Leon Se dropped them.

"It is so, yes," admitted Sorelli today. "He goes, yes. In two rounds. But of course it is only for Europe."

For Europe? "Yes, for Europe," explained Sorelli. "For the United States, for over here, you know, we go two fast rounds to a draw. Then everybody happy."

So one of the greatest of modern prize ring naturalists, a heavyweight championship battle between Carnera, the knockout conqueror, and Baer, the man who belted over Max Schmeling in the first great upset of the present summer season, is going to be thoroughly rehearsed before it is put on. This, the match that was to bring back the $1,000,000 gate—the match promoters from New York to California via Chicago have been trying to make for weeks.

"You understand it, of course?" Sorelli questions at the worried looks about him. "It is for the moving pictures in Hollywood."

'BUD' PARMALEE OUTSTANDING OF THURSDAY STARS

New York Freshman's Speed Too Much For Phillies

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The name of Leroy "Bud" Parmelee, the big "freshman" finger, already has been placed near the top of the list of reasons why the New York Giants are leading the National League. But the young right hander who led the American Association with Columbus last season still is seeking the no-hit game he has approached at least twice this season.

In his first start, Parmelee allowed the Phillies only one hit for a 2 to 1 victory. Yesterday he came just about as close to his perfect game as he blanked the same team with two safeties to win 4 to 0. In between he has hurled a couple of four-hit games and established himself as one of the outstanding young hurlers by winning ten games and losing only five in 22 appearances on the hill.

Seven Hitless Innings
For seven innings yesterday, Parmelee didn't give a hit, allowed only one walk and hit one batsman as he turned in his best ball where the batters couldn't see it under the gray sky and tricked them with effective curves and change of pace. Wes Schulmerich broke the spell with a single to start the eighth and after walking a second man, Parmelee pulled out again with two strikeouts and went on until two were out in the ninth before Chuck Klein smacked a single for the second Philly hit.

The Giants got two of their runs on George Davis' homer in the fifth and the other pair on timely swats against Snipe Hansen. The victory increased New York's lead to 3 1-2 games over Pittsburgh as the Pirates opening battle with the Chicago Cubs, the only other game on the National League schedule was rained out.

Senators Boost Lead

The Washington Senators made the same improvement in their position in the American League standing, boosting their lead over the New York Yankees to 3 1-2 games with a 5-3 triumph over the Boston Red Sox. Rain halted the Yankees' game with Philadelphia's Athletics after the pitchers had warmed up to start.

The Senators, as usual, found the Red Sox tough customers, but after trailing 3-0 in the fourth, they came back to win as Al Crowder and Jack Russell prevented any serious hitting. An error and two hits, including one by Marty McManis, including one by triple when Buddy Myer and Goose Goslin collided under a fly gave Boston its three runs. Washington got two of them back, then settled the game with a three run outburst in the eighth when a pass to Dave Harris forced in one run and Goslin's single brought in two more.

White Sox Win

The Chicago White Sox advanced to threaten the fourth place rivals, Detroit and Cleveland, by beating the Tigers 6 to 3 in the other game on the program. Sad Sam Jones gave the Tigers only eight hits while the Sox poled out 13 off Carl Fischer and Eldon Auker bunching most of them in the early innings and "coasting" in while Jones got better and better as the game wore on. The victory left Chicago only two games back of Detroit and half a game behind the Cleveland Indians, who bracketed with St. Louis, had an open date.

Clyde Van Dusen At End Of Career

Chicago, Aug. 11—(AP)—The winner of the 1929 Kentucky Derby, Man O' War's son, Clyde Van Dusen.

Victory in the public links golf tournament has smiled on Charles Ferrera, 23-year-old San Francisco iron worker, Charles, winner of the national tournament in 1931, defeated Robert Lee Miller of Jacksonville, Fla., defending champion, in the recent tournament at Portland, Ore. The victor and his smile are shown above.

en, apparently is at the end of his active racing career.

The stout-hearted little gelding which won a purse worth $53,690 on his single day of glory, yesterday was out of the money in the $1500 claiming affair at Hawthorne.

He knew what to do, and tried hard to do it, but his seven year old legs, always weak, refused to carry him at top speed for a mile and an eighth. He was in front during the early running and was in second place at the last turn. However still going through the motions, he dropped back and finished sixth.
